TRIPS FROM BETHEL ADD TO PLEASURE OF RESIDENTS, VISITORS

At this time of the year residents of a community like ours should become conscious of the beauties and advantages of our area. If for no other reason than to appear to be reasonably appreciative of the same when in contact with our numerous summer visitors. In line with the idea of Bethel as a Vacation Center, it has been suggested that we should be prepared to uphold this slogan with a knowledge of local attractions and suggestions for a few pleasing journeys.

In the trips listed here will be found a wide variety of scenery, and the pleasure can be doubled in sight-seeing value by reversing the direction another time. One may well allow time for occasional stops and deviations as by-ways may appeal to the traveler, but during these long days a half day will generally suffice for full enjoyment. The suggestions which follow are but a slight beginning of an almost endless list of enjoyable rides which feature our town's vacation and outing trip possibilities.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

A short time ago I made the suggestion that a battery radio would be appreciated by one old gentleman in town. Through the kindness of one lady (requesting no names be mentioned) two friendly men and the cooperation of one of our local radio repairmen the battery radio with a large battery has been given this man. It is interesting to note that widely separated sections of the Town are represented in these acts of kindness. I want to extend my own thanks with those of the old gentlemen for this consideration to him.

What is a "Hurry Bug"? He's the fellow who just can't seem to relax. He bolts his meals, rushes from one place to another, crams his life full of all sorts of trivial activity, and exists in a perpetual state of nervous agitation. This type of existence breeds ulcers and, on the street or highway, is an invitation to violent death. Our State Police—Caution us to squash any such tendencies on our part...to start taking it easy, especially behind the wheel. Let's make a real effort to "Slow Down and Live".

Maine Group Buys Bethel Inn Property

THE BETHEL INN

The Bethel Inn has been sold by Dr Arthur L. Walters of Miami Beach, Fla., Ralph Lowell of Boston, Sidney W. Davidson of New York City, and United States Trust Company of New York, as trustees under the will of William Bingham, 2nd, to a group of State of Maine citizens, according to an announcement made today by the trustees. Mr Bingham who resided in Bethel had been proprietor of the Inn for over 40 years before his death on February 17, 1953.

The new group has taken over the operation in the Inn through Bethel Inn, Inc. The directors of the corporation are Guy P. Butler of Falmouth, Maine, who is Executive Manager of the State of Maine Publicity Bureau and Secretary of the State of Maine Hotel Association, Mrs Butler, Harold E. Severance of Severance Lodge at Center Lovell, Sherman K. Crockett of Mills Lodge at South Casco, Richard H. Per of the Lafayette Hotel in Portland, Leroy C. Luce a representative of the banking firm of H. M. Payson & Company of Portland, and Frank P. Prell, attorney, of Portland.

Peter Schutt, who managed the Inn for Mr Bingham for fifteen years and had previously been Manager of the Hotel Casa Marina at Key West, Florida, will continue as Manager for the new group.

Mr Bingham's trustees authorized the following statement:

"The Bethel Inn is located in the foothills of the White Mountains and occupies the site of a colonial tavern on the ancient post-road between Portland and Quebec. It was the setting for 'The Master of the Inn,' a short novel by Robert Herrick published by Charles Scribner's Sons, which was so popular that it has run through thirty-eight editions.

"Under Mr Bingham's proprietorship the Inn had such a unique atmosphere and offered such extraordinary standards of service that its guests came each year from every part of this country and Canada.

"Mr Bingham instructed his trustees to demolish the Inn unless they could find a buyer who would maintain its standards. In order to find such a buyer, his trustees made broad inquiries throughout the country with the advice of Robert T. Barr, President of Barr, Gleason and Barr, Inc., of New York City, of Allan C. George, a partner in the firm of Harris, Kerr, Forester & Co., hotel consultants and accountants of New York City, and of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce.

"Mr Bingham's trustees determined that the State of Maine group headed by Mr Butler fully met Mr Bingham's requirements. "Bethel Inn, Inc., has made an unusual covenant with Mr Bingham's trustees that it will 'conscientiously and in good faith operate and maintain the Inn in accordance with the same policies and high standards which Mr Bingham followed, to the end that the outstanding reputation which the Inn now enjoys shall be preserved and continued."

"The distinction, the charm and the financial welfare of the Town of Bethel depend largely upon the Inn. In order to protect the interests of the town, the new corporation made a further unusual covenant under which the property of the Inn cannot be sold in whole or in part without first offering it to Gould Academy in Bethel.

"Gould, a co-educational boarding school which also serves as the town high school, was established in 1826, and Mr Bingham was its senior trustee and its principal benefactor.

"The sale covers all the land, buildings and equipment used by the Inn including its adjacent 9-hole golf course and its cabin on nearby Songo Pond.

"The purchase price was not disclosed but the transaction was all cash."

A new Newman planer has been installed in the mill of the L. E. Davis Lumber Co.

Mr and Mrs George Pendleton, Karen and Bill, from Bristol, R. I., were week end guests of Rev and Mrs Charles Pendleton and family. Mrs Charles Pendleton, who came with them, will remain for the summer.

Mr and Mrs Robert Hastings, Mr and Mrs Carroll Abbott, Mrs Estelle Goggin, Mr and Mrs Kimball Ames and Elmer Allen attended the meeting of the Maine Savings Bank Association at Lakewood Tuesday.

100 Ideas from other editors

From the Webster Times, Webster, Massachusetts: Warnings never seem to have any effect on those apparently glib people who accept the smooth sales talk of a stranger out to make a fast dollar. Yet those who are most frequently victimized by these racketeers are the very people who can least afford to throw their money away.

In the past few months, several instances have been reported to police . . . of strangers—address unknown—who have left town with their pockets lined with the hard-earned dollar which their victims could have used to purchase goods right here in town.

It is difficult to conceive why anyone would give even a small sum to a collector or salesman unknown to them for a cause they have not seen publicized, for goods which sometimes retail in local stores for a quarter of the price, or as a deposit on an unseen article to be received later. But that has happened.

The police can do little about these racketeering salesmen or collectors because they rarely know of their presence in town until several residents have parted with their money. Then they wake up and complain to the authorities. By that time, both money and racketeer are well on their way to other green fields.

The best means of combating these rackets is to refuse to do business with anyone who cannot show credentials. If a campaign for funds is going on in the community there is usually publicity about the project ahead of time. If an organization or church is soliciting funds, that too is generally known in advance.

In any event, if the person at your door is a legitimate collector or salesman he will carry some identification and will be glad to show it on request.

From the Hollywood Herald, Hollywood, Florida: Way back in 1837 this country underwent its first major depression. Many demanded a program of heavy federal spending be adopted. That led President Van Buren to make some observations that are as timely now as they were then.

He said: "All communities are apt to look to the government too much. This ought not to be. The framers of our Constitution . . . wisely suggested that the less government interferes with private pursuits the better for general prosperity."

"It is not the government's legitimate object to make men rich or to repair, by direct grants of money or legislation, losses not incurred in the public service."

The nation never was given wiser advice.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Ownership of industry is being rapidly democratized—discussed throughout the population—said Henry Ford II in a speech before the American Newspaper Publishers Association. "More and more white- and blue-collar workers own more and more of the business firms for which they work, through profit-sharing plans, direct stock ownership or indirectly through a wide variety of pension and retirement funds."

Mr. Ford—who is strongly optimistic as to the soundness of our American economy and our future prospects—then went on to list some of the other great changes that have taken place in the capitalist system, including the emergence of the professional manager, the greatly expanded role of government as a moderator or referee, and the development of private governmental social security systems. Then he made the suggestion that "we look upon capital not as accumulated wealth or goods but as the productive power potential stored up in machinery. . . . By studying the distribution of horsepower among our people, we can perhaps learn something new about American capitalism and just who it is who controls the real wealth of our country."

At this point Mr. Ford presented some remarkable and little-known facts. Excluding that in military use, this country has at its command something like 6250,000,000 horsepower. In machines ranging from the biggest electric generators to little home appliances. That works out to about 40 mechanical horses for every man, woman and child in the country.

That's certainly impressive—and the way the horsepower is owned is more impressive still. Industry and agriculture own about 1,600,000,000. State and municipal governments have a small amount—around 75,000,000. What Mr. Ford calls "home capitalism"—everything from your automobile to your electric razor—accounts for the largest amount by far—4,700,000,000 horsepower. To quote him again, "I submit that when you find people possessing many times more capital goods than industry; when you find that industry itself is being owned by ever greater numbers of the people; and when you see the opening to all Americans of new horizons of comfort and pleasure and experience which short years ago were available only to the well-to-do—and the very well-to-do, at that—then you're just to conclude that our system is, after all, being run for the benefit of the capitalists—all 160,000,000 of us!"

Mr. Ford also observed that an-

my P P PET PEEVE
by Mike Bennett

I HAVE decided that a person never grows so old that warm rays of sunshine cannot bring out the urge to shake the shoes and socks and walk barefooted along a dusty lane.

Finding a dusty lane (within walking distance) is a problem for many of us these days and, since we must (or should) act our age, we growups have to give vent to this perennial motivation in some more orthodox fashion.

I wish I could find another outlet that would give me half as much satisfaction as my usual May or June custom of telling Sam the barber to "make it a crew-cut."

There are several reasons I would "go to get out of the habit. To begin with, I just haven't the head for it . . . which isn't to say I don't have a head, it merely isn't the crew-cut excrement. Believe it or not, I once had a barber refuse to give me a crew-cut.

That incident should have convinced me, but it happened several years ago and the short-hair bug gets at me in early Spring and usually wins out by early June.

Then it's the same old story. The little woman says, "I like your haircut dear," as she walks slowly around to inspect it from all angles. "It shows up your head so well." (Wonder what she means by that!) Then she goes off to another room and has herself a good laugh.

And the fellows along Main Street . . . "Boy, the lawn mower you used on that sure needs sharpening." . . . "Tell the truth now, that's not store-bought, you did it yourself." . . . "Man, you didn't go to sleep—the barber did!" Well, anyhow, it's only so long until whistling comes again.

BOWDOIN PRESIDENT NOTES GROWING JUSTICE OF COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Competition among colleges in awarding scholarships to attract superior students "is resulting in practices which verge upon, if they have not already become, abuses," according to Dr. James S. Coles, President of Bowdoin College.

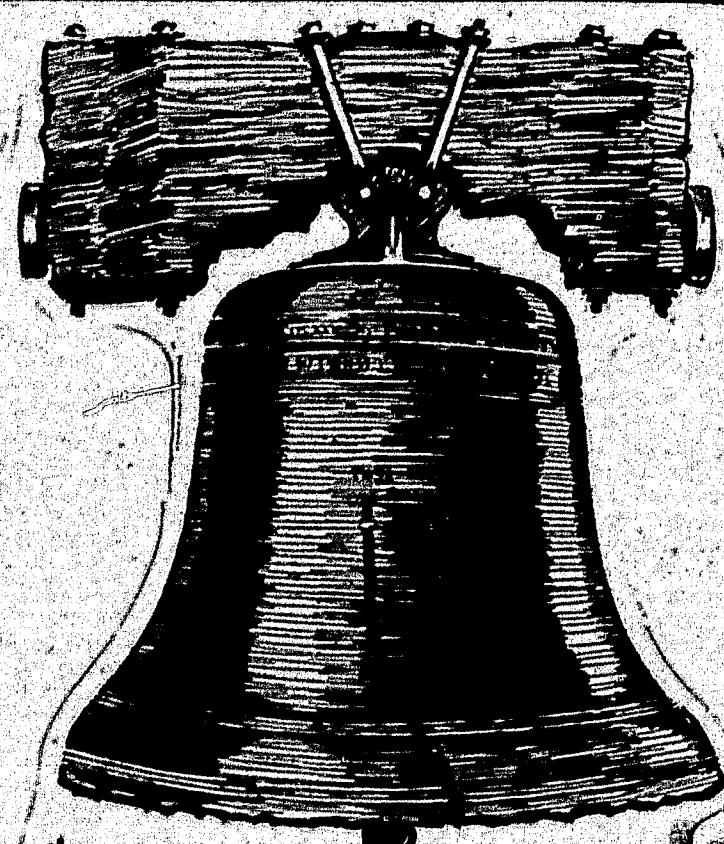

In his annual report to the Trustees and Overseers of Bowdoin, President Coles discusses scholarship practices in terms of policy at Bowdoin, the effects of increasing competition among a limited number of colleges, and steps are being taken to meet the problem through the College Scholarship Service that has been organized under the auspices of the College Entrance Examination Board.

"While it is not always easy to provide the scholarship funds required or desired," President Coles writes, "the truly perplexing aspects of this problem arise from the competition which exists among a limited group of colleges for the limited number of superior students. Competition is healthy, but this competition is resulting in practices which verge upon, if they have not already become, abuses. Many institutions will offer a scholarship in excess of the actual need, hoping thereby to attract a desirable candidate to their own campus. Not only is the welfare of the secondary school senior who is the object of so much attention ignored, but the boy is apt to be harmed by a false sense of his own importance, and of the obligation of the society to provide for him. Ignored also is the responsibility of the colleges to use their limited scholarship funds for the greatest good for all able students in pecuniary need. Too often in the good of the individual neglected as colleges compete scholarship-wise for a given particularly gifted student."

"In a preliminary attempt to meet this problem Bowdoin has joined with other colleges in forming the College Scholarship Service under the auspices of the College Entrance Examination Board. The surface of the problem is barely scratched, and it is hoped that continued candor and sincerity on the part of all of the institutions involved will lead, within a few years, to a more just and equitable scholarship policy."

antagonism to distribution businesses has crept into our thinking, and that retailers, salesmen and others are sometimes accused of being economic parasites. He said, "We speak often of the 'high cost' of distribution. Seldom do we think in terms of value added by distribution. It should be perfectly obvious that the whole distribution promotes more consumption, more production and more employment. In so doing it effectively lowers the cost and adds to the value of the goods. . . . In this connection, another little-known fact is worth noting. Getting goods to market is one of the biggest jobs in our whole economy. Strange as it may seem, the horsepower used for this purpose, in our railroads, merchant ships and trucks is more than 10 times that of all the machines producing consumer goods."

RENEWED MESSAGE FOR THIS "FOURTH"

"WE ARE AGAIN FACE TO FACE WITH THE NECESSITY OF ASSERTING ANEW THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT OF FREE MEN TO MAKE THEIR OWN LAWS AND CHOOSE THEIR OWN ALLEGIANCE, OR ELSE PERMIT HUMANITY TO BECOME THE VICTIM OF A RUTHLESS AMBITION THAT IS DETERMINED TO DESTROY WHAT IT CANNOT MASTER" WOODROW WILSON

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Veterans and the widows and children of deceased veterans receiving pension from Veterans Administration should report immediately any increase in income which would raise their annual income above the statutory limitations.

This warning was sounded by Manager M. L. Stoddard of the Togus VA Center.

To remain eligible for pension under the law, according to Stoddard, pensioners of World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict may not have an annual income from other sources exceeding $1,400 without dependents, or $2,700 with wife or minor children.

VA checks the annual income of those receiving pension through the medium of questionnaires which are distributed about January 1 of each year.

Later, if the person receiving the pension fails to notify VA promptly of an increase in income which raises his annual income above the statutory limit, payments will be discontinued retroactively to the first of the year.

This creates an overpayment, Stoddard said, and is subject to recovery by the Government.

If the person receiving the pension notifies VA promptly of such an increase, payments will be discontinued as of the date the last payment was made, and no overpayment will result.

Manager Stoddard said veterans, widows and children receiving pension can save themselves inconvenience and possibly money by notifying VA promptly of any in-

DAILE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

JOHN CLAYTON, 3519 W. Alameda Road, Phoenix, Arizona, had worried for months and years about his wife's illness, and his worry increased when the doctor said that she should undergo an operation, but that he didn't know whether her heart condition would permit it. Also a cancerous condition might be revealed. However, an operation was decided upon and she entered the hospital for an operation four days later. John Clayton was so worried he hardly knew what was going on around him.

Sometime during the first part of the week the Scripture found in the first verse of the 18th chapter of Luke came to him, that "men ought always to pray, and not to faint." He had been praying, but he had been fainting also, to the extent of his worried outlook. But from then on as he prayed he took a more optimistic attitude.

When they were preparing to take his wife to the operating room she said, "If I don't come through this, you all will just have to do the best you can." If she had said this three or four days earlier, he says, he doesn't know what he would have said or done, but now he calmly told her she was going to be all right. After they took her away, he seemed to want to be alone and he spent a good deal of time standing on the front steps. Suddenly he seemed to feel the presence of God because he never felt less alone in his life, even though no human being was near.

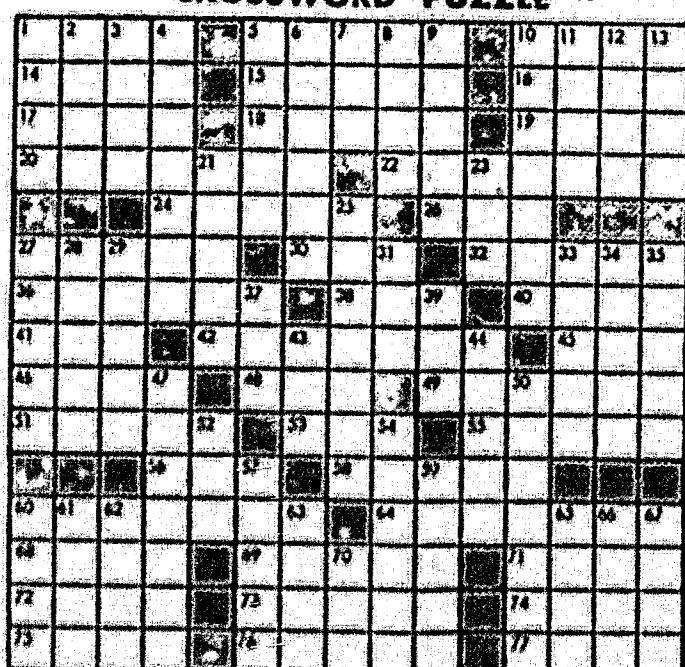

The operation was a splendid success in spite of the long duration of his wife's illness and her weakened condition before his wife was restored to him and to her home.

Manager Stoddard said any VA office can explain full eligibility requirements for pension. Poultry, potatoes, and dairy are the three major agricultural enterprises in Maine today.

SCANNING THE NEWS

A NEW wonder of the world will soon rise above New York's Pennsylvania Station—at a cost of more than $100,000,000.

Without interrupting the flow of 600 trains a day, or causing any inconvenience to the 110,000,000 passengers a year utilizing the rapid transit facilities here in New York's transportation hub, private industry will erect the biggest building in the world. Appropriately named the Palace of Progress, the enormous structure will be a permanent World's Fair and an international merchandise mart designed to stimulate and exhibit the products of trade, commerce and industry in the Free World. Showman Billy Rose will be president and general manager of the "Palace."

Rooted and roofed over the present site of Penn Station, the building will be two blocks wide and will contain approximately 70 million more cubic feet than the $1 million cubic feet Pentagon. In terms of floor space, including the terminal facilities below street level, the Palace of Progress will measure almost 7 million square feet, surpassing the Pentagon and Chicago's Merchandise Mart, more than three times the space in the Empire State Building.

The monumental undertaking is a project of Webb & Knapp, Inc., William Zeckendorf, president, and will be operated and merchandised by Palace of Progress, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary, with Rose in the key operational post. Complete with restaurants, private dining rooms, a pool of stenographers and interpreters, the Palace of Progress will provide a permanent, central point-of-sale contact between consumer, manufacturer and distributor. The structure can best be visualized as four distinct layers. The upper segment will be given over to office space for resident buyers, brokers, importers and exporters, and commercial attaches of foreign governments. An additional 2,000,000 square feet of space will be devoted to a merchandise mart on the wholesale level. It will be departmentalized, and will include modern facilities for the display and sale of merchandise.

On the first floor will be a single piece of exhibit space approximately six times the size of the arena at Madison Square Garden; on the first six or seven floors, approximately 2,000,000 square feet will be devoted to the public exhibition of goods and services by private concerns and foreign governments.

The foundation segment of the Palace of Progress will be Pennsylvania Station, which will also be streamlined and air conditioned, incorporating the most modern ideas in ticket-selling and passenger-servicing. The station will carry on as usual, with no interruptions in trains or service while the enormous structure is being constructed. Daisie segments of the building will be suspended from massive girders rooted between the tracks below ground level.

THE CITIZEN OFFICE

Read Deuteronomy 28:1-6 or I John 5:1-5.

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore. (Psalm 121:8)

MANY years ago in India I visited each week a village of outcasts, helping them with land and home problems, and holding worship services with them. One evening, Baudha Das, a humble and courteous man, said to me: "Bhabhi, I want you to do something for me. Please show me another place where I may put up a new house for mud and bamboo hut and live safely with my family. Where we now live is ill-fated; we are always having misfortune."

Quietly, I showed him I could not do that, pointing out that no site could be ill-fated or good. Rather than move to a new site, I encouraged him to ask God's help to meet anything life might bring. God was there to bless him as surely as anywhere. We prayed together and quietly separated.

Some days later I saw him again. I said to him alone: "What are you going to do about your house?" He looked at me with an assured smile and said: "I'm going to stay where I am; I know God is with me there. Please come and pray with us."

Prayer
Help us, dear Lord, to live this day blessed with the assurance that Thou art present with us. We thank Thee for the comforting presence and help of the Holy Spirit in our lives. In Christ's holy name we pray. Amen.

The Prophet of Judah's Decline,
Lesson for July 3: Jeremiah 22:1-24:25

Golden Text: Jeremiah 22:13.
Jeremiah has been called the "Weeping Prophet," because of his book of Lamentations and because of the general tenor of his utterances. It fell to him to tell apostate kings and willful people truths they did not want to hear and to demand of them a course they did not want to pursue. His voice became very unwelcome to rulers and people, and steps were taken to silence him even by threat of death. But Jeremiah demonstrated that not every man who can weep is afraid to die. Not once was he intimidated, not once was he silenced except by force and imprisonment.

Renouncing alliances with other nations as a means of defense against mighty Babylon instead of obedience to God and trust in him, Jeremiah incurred the enmity of the rulers and he was accused of being an ally of the enemy. The prophet was a native of a village a few miles north of Jerusalem, and he began his service to the latter part of Josiah's reign and he continued to labor for almost fifty years. When the remnant of the people fled into Egypt, Jeremiah was forced to go with them, and the last glimpse we have of him is that of the faithful old prophet denouncing the worship of the Egyptian "queen of heaven," which his foolish people had taken up. His whole life was a "g" example of devotion to God when all the world seemed to be going the other way.

Our State Police remind us that most of the people who hurry on the highways really have no life-and-death reason for such haste. The hurry is a result of a state of mind that causes them to think only of themselves and time. In other words, their basic attitude is wrong. Let's ask ourselves... are we guilty of "hurry" on the road? If so, let's be honest enough to admit it to ourselves... and wise enough to "Slow Down and Live."

WILSON - MILLS

Sally Mills of Andover became the bride of A/2c Keith E. Wilson, Bethel, at a pretty all-white wedding at the First Congregational Church, Andover, on June 12. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Andrew Young of Andover and Rev. Charles Pendleton of Bethel, before an altar banked with evergreen and decorated with wedding bells. Candelabra and baskets of white gladioli completed the decorations. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Roger H. Mills Sr.

Traditional wedding music was played by Stanley Fox, cousin of the bride, with Miss Patricia Judson, Unity, classmate of the bride, as soloist, singing, "Forever and Ever."

The bride's floor length gown was fashioned of Chantilly lace with nylon pleated panel inset, fitted bodice, plong pointed sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her finger-ring veil of bridal illusion was caught to a cap of lace and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Serving as maid of honor was Mary Cole, Hampden, with Mrs. Dorothy Mills, Andover, sister-in-law of the bride; Frances Dressner, Andover, cousin of the bride; Kay Wilson, Boston, twin sister of the groom, and Patricia Judson, Unity, as bridesmaids. Sharon York, Bethel, niece of the groom, served as junior bridesmaid.

All of the bride's attendants wore ballerina length gowns of white lace and net and carried white lace fans decorated with red split carnations. Their headbands were of red split carnations.

The flower girls, Karen and Peggy Mills, Andover, nieces of the bride, wore white ballerina length dresses of frosted organza with white headbands of split carnations. They carried white baskets filled with rose petals, which they dropped before the bride.

Roger Mills, III, Andover, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer. Thomas Smith, Bethel, classmate of the groom, served as best man with Roger Mills Jr., Andover, brother of the bride, Gary York and Richard Bryant, Bethel, brothers-in-law of the groom, and Eugene Brown, Bethel, as ushers.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the town hall. Mrs. James Baker, West Peru, was in charge of the guest book. Nancy Small, Lewiston, and Marjorie Crossman, Lawrence, were in charge of the gifts.

Mrs. Dorothy York and Mrs. Barbara Bryant, Bethel, sisters of the groom, served the punch with Mrs. Leatrice Myhrall, Miss Dorothy Lang and Mrs. Fern Conrad, Andover, assisting in serving. For traveling, the bride wore a black and white checked suit with white accessories and carried an aqua coat. Her carriage was of red roses. They left on a short trip to New Hampshire, returning the same week, when they left for Greenville, S. C., where the groom will be stationed at Donaldson AFB, Greenville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mills, Sr., Andover. She attended Andover schools and graduated from Andover High School. She attended Farmington uncle, Otis Curtis, at West Sumner on Sunday.

Mr and Mrs Harold Holt of South Paris were Sunday callers at Leonard Holt's.

LOCKE MILLS DROP BRYANT POND 11-0
A "Pony" team from Bryant Pond invaded Bethel Saturday afternoon and met with a barrage of extra base hits that beat them 11-0. Albert Sumner Jr. led the attack with two homers and a double. He was closely followed by Dickie Roberts who had a homer and single and Jerry Smith with a triple and a double. Play afield was very tight with only one miscue for each team.

"Teddy" White pitched a fine four hitter and struck out 11. Dana Bean, who relieved him in the 7th gave up no hits and struck out two.

This makes two in a row for the Ponies; who beat South Paris a week ago 7-1. These boys are really playing a great brand of baseball. Why not come out and see the next home game? They could use the support and in return show you a real ball game, win or lose.
